

Contents

Foreword Erskine Childers	vii
Preface	ix
Abbreviations	x
1. A System in Crisis	1
Freedom from Hunger – a Legal Right	2
Defining the Problem	2
2. Hunger and Death	6
Low Rations – Avoidable Deaths	7
'Self-sufficiency' – a Hasty Assumption	11
The Plight of the 'Other Half'	13
3. Not by Bread Alone	16
Preventable Diseases: the Vitamin Gap	16
Health Care	20
Safe to Drink	21
Mental Anguish	22
'Not a statue or a picture'	24
4. A Question of Responsibility	27
Monitoring	29
'If there is going to be oppression, then you had better be near a border'	30
The Uses of Vagueness	32
Justifying	33
5. The Unkindest Cuts	36
Consequences of the Funding Crisis	37
A Hardening of Attitudes	40
NGOs to the Rescue?	40
International Food Reserves: A Case of Unhealthy Competition	41
Stop-gap Measures	42
Overcoming Transport Problems	43
Tightening Food Supplies	44
Needs or Availability?	44

6. Providing an Income: The Other Side of the Relief Coin	47
The Need for Relevant Research	49
Distributing Cash	50
Low Returns from Selling Food	51
Arguments Against Cash Handouts	51
Enterprise and 'Dependency'	54
Political Constraints	56
Assisting Development, Not Imposing It	58
Removing Economic Constraints	59
Self-Help Through Selling Rations	62
Who Do Camps Really Help?	64
Relief: Who Decides?	65
7. An Agenda for Action	69
Providing More Resources	69
Specifying Responsibility	71
Specific Issues	73
Root Causes	76
Appendix	79
Index	83