

Contents

Preface	i
1. Introduction	1
Global trends and female movements	1
2. Multidimensional Aspects of Migration	5
Increased Migration from Low-income Countries	5
Female Migration from Low-income Countries	6
3. Globalisation and International Migration	9
Global Demand for Female Labour	9
Globalisation and Anti-globalisation	10
Gender and the Global Economy	12
The Neoliberal Interpretation	13
The Exploitation Approach	15
The Value of Women's Labour	18
4. Explaining Women as Transnational Migrants	19
The Push-Pull Theory	19
The Social Mobility Theory	20
The Application of Mobility Theories to, Traditional Societies	22
5. Sri Lanka	25
The Plantation Community	26
Social Standards of Sri Lankan Women from Migration Areas	28
Women under Patriarchy	29
Landownership Land	30
6. The Feminisation of Migration	31
Why Do Women Migrate?	33
Female Migration vs Male Migration	34

7. Studying the Migration of the Plantation Community	36
8. The Thin Line between Empowerment and Exploitation	40
Occupational Shifts	45
Migration and Development	49
Gaps in Combating Exploitation	50
The Lack of Government Intervention Increases Exploitation	52
Increased Mobility and Improvement of Work Conditions	54
Selection Procedure in Families	56
Migration as an Escape	57
Migration and Social Battles	58
9. The Pros and Cons of Female Migration	59
Upward Mobility and Empowerment	59
Opportunities and Negotiation Power	60
Exploitation	61
How to tackle the problem	62
Class Situation as Market Situation	63
10. Conclusion	65
Future Research	66
References	67