

Contents

Editor's Foreword	vii
Preface	xi
Introduction The Need for International Protection of the Individual	1
I The UN Examines Its Methods of Protection	5
II International Legislation to Establish Human Rights	9
III Education: Long-Range Protection	17
IV Coercing Governments to Respect Basic Rights	22
V Protection through Non-Criminal Adjudication	37
VI The Problem of Enforcing Judgments against Governments	43
VII Protection by Criminal Adjudication	61
VIII International Negotiation to Assist Victims	70
IX Investigation as a Means of Protection	84
X The UN's Southern Africa Investigations	95
XI Sources of Information on Violations	127
XII The UN's Double Standard on Treatment of Complaints	143
XIII The Protective Power of Publicity	154
XIV Aid and Comfort for the Oppressed	159
XV Summary and Conclusion	168
Appendixes
A	177
B	189
Index	197