

Detailed Table of Contents

Preface		xiii
Chapter 1	Introduction	1
	Why and when do we write?	1
	'The grammatical and ordinary sense'	2
	Professional and pragmatic considerations: the importance of written communication for law students	4
	Meeting the expectations of a graduate of the Bachelor of Laws or the Juris Doctor	4
	The contents of this book and how to use them	5
	Conclusion	7
Chapter 2	Grammar Matters: English Grammar and the Law	9
	The historical roots of today's English	9
	Why are these important?	9
	Grammar and law: prescription or description?	10
	Where does English come from?	11
	English: spelling and styles	14
	Australian English and style(s)	16
	Grammar components	17
	Keys to parts of a sentence	19
	Nouns	21
	Distinguishing a proper noun from a common noun	22
	Are collective nouns singular or plural?	22
	Verbs	23
	The importance of verbs in clauses and sentences	26
	Active and passive voice	30
	Verb nominalisations	35
	Use of compound verbs: 'shall', 'will' and 'must'	37
	Infinitive verbs	39
	Punctuation	41
	Introduction	41
	The apostrophe: possession and contraction	41
	The comma	44
	Marking breaks in a sentence	45
	Before the introduction of a principal clause	48

	Separating lists of nouns	48
	The 'Oxford' or the serial comma	50
	The colon and the semicolon	51
	The colon (:)	51
	The semicolon (;)	52
	Parallel structure	54
Chapter 3	Plain English Writing and the Law	57
	What is the problem with the way lawyers communicate?	57
	Why do lawyers use legalese?	58
	What is plain English?	60
	A moral imperative and a pragmatic choice: why legal writing and communication needs to be clear	61
	Techniques for plain English writing	63
	Considering your reader, the context and the purpose for writing	63
	Keep the style 'as simple as possible — but no simpler'	64
	Use specialist terms only where there is no plain English alternative and explain specialist terms if you must use them	64
	Use short sentences where possible	68
	Ways to achieve shorter sentences	69
	Use active sentences	70
	Comply with rules of grammar and punctuation	70
	Use gender-neutral and non-discriminatory language	71
	How to develop gender-neutral and non-discriminatory language techniques	71
	Think carefully about layout and presentation	72
	Use relevant headings	73
	Use different formatting techniques to give emphasis and weight	73
	Use numbered lists, tables and graphs	73
	Be consistent (and considerate) with font type and size	74
	Incorporate white space	74
	And finally ...	74
Chapter 4	Ethical Considerations and Referencing Conventions	77
	Academic integrity	78
	Plagiarism	79
	Collusion	80
	Cheating	81
	Falsified or fabricated results	82
	Other academic integrity issues	83
	Academic integrity in legal writing	83
	Admission to legal practice: the importance of academic integrity in legal writing	84
	Tips and traps in preparing written work	88
	Planning	88
	Drafting	88
	Referencing requirements	94
	Familiarity with the referencing guide	96

Chapter 5	Academic Legal Writing	101
	Academic legal writing at law school	102
	Types of 'academic legal writing' at law school	104
	Problem questions	106
	Identifying issues in the facts	107
	Narrowing down the issues	109
	Identifying a logical order for discussion of the issues	110
	Gathering information in preparation for writing	113
	The research process	114
	Writing a problem question answer	116
	The introduction	117
	Discussion of the issues in the problem question	117
	The conclusion	126
	Review, reflect and refine	127
	Theoretical essay questions	129
	Identifying issues in a theoretical essay question	130
	Directions in the wording of the question	130
	Identifying issues and sub-issues in the question	133
	Researching the issues	136
	Writing a theoretical essay	138
	The introduction	138
	The body of the essay	139
	The conclusion	146
	Review, reflect and refine	147
	Case notes	148
	Why do law students prepare case notes?	148
	The use of case notes in academic writing	149
	Content of a case note	150
	Making the most of a case note	151
	Citation and case details	151
	Facts	152
	Issues	152
	Decision	154
	Ratio/ Reasons	154
	Important obiter	156
	Detailed case notes	156
	Case notes incorporated into assessment tasks	157
Chapter 6	Profession-Orientated Writing	161
	Paperwork and running a file	162
	Letters	164
	Letters to clients	165
	Step 1: Identify the purpose	167
	Step 2: Identify the issues	168
	Step 3: Planning the letter	170
	Step 4: Drafting the letter	175
	Step 5: Review, refine and edit the letter	179
	Using email to communicate with a client	180

Example letter	180
Communication with lawyers, the courts, third parties and other bodies	184
Step 1: Identify the purpose	186
Step 2: Identify the issues to be addressed	188
Step 3: Planning	189
Step 4: Draft the letter	193
Step 5: Review, edit and refine	197
Memorandums and file notes	199
The planning and preparation process	201
Identifying issues and sub-issues	202
Conducting legal research	202
Planning the content of the memo	202
Writing a memo	204
Use of authorities	205
Practical considerations	206
The conclusion	207
Formatting the memo	207
Review, refine and edit the memo	208
Outlines of argument	209
Structure and content of written submissions	210
General structure of an outline of argument	210
The heading	211
Statement of issues	212
Statement of facts or chronology	213
Drafting the submissions	214
Orders sought	220
Sign-off	220
Formatting written submissions	221
A note of caution in relation to limitations on the number of pages or words	222
Review, refine and edit	223
Barristers' opinions	224
Identifying what the task requires	225
Identifying relevant sub-issues	227
The order for discussion of the issues	228
Legal research	228
Structure	230
The heading and sign-off	230
Acknowledge your instructions	231
Summary of the relevant facts or evidence	232
Discussion of the issues	233
Conclusion	234
Drafting the content	235
Allowing for alternative outcomes	235
Providing objective advice	236
Reference to authorities	237
Formatting the document	237

Page numbers and paragraphs numbers	237
Font, font size and line spacing	237
Citation of sources	238
Review, refine and edit	238
An introduction to drafting legal documents	239
Drafting according to the purpose, context and reader	240
Contracts	241
Affidavits	242
The use of precedents	243
Structure and format of the document	243
Identifying the foundational information	244
Headings, sub-headings, clauses and sub-clauses	245
Definitions sections	246
Utilising lists	249
Expression	251
Review, edit and refine	252
Chapter 7 Planning, Editing and Reflecting	255
Planning and preparing for assessments	256
Proper planning and preparation	256
Organising your semester	256
Assessment task deadlines	258
Planning and drafting the document	262
The planning and preparation process	262
The drafting process	263
Prior to submission: review, refine and edit	264
Reviewing and refining your work	264
Editing your work	266
Checking for grammatical, spelling and typographical errors	266
Checking for compliance with formatting and submission requirements	268
The final check	270
Feedback and reflection	271
Understanding the marker's feedback	272
Index	281

