

Contents

Foreword	vii
Preface	ix
Exordial Remarks	xi
Presidential Remarks	xvi
1 Introduction
Dedication	1
An Event to Report	2
The Antecedents of the Main Theme	5
The Ingredients of the Subject	7
(a) Sources of Law and Legal Priorities	7
(b) Sovereignty	8
(c) Citizenship; Nationality and Aliens	8
(d) The Adjudicatory Concept and the Judicial Mechanism	9
(e) Legal Procedures and Law of Evidence	9
(f) Concept of Crime and Punishment and Humanitarian Laws	9
(g) Civil Law and Concept of Property	10
(h) Buddhist Juristic Concepts	10
Constitutional Concepts
2 The Constitutional Theory of Ancient Indian Polity
The Origin of the State and its Function with the Supremacy of Law or Dharma	12
(1) Danda or Force and the Origin of the State with its Primary Function of Protection	13
(2) Danda (Force), Dharma (Divine Law), and Rajan (King)	15
(3) The Supremacy of Dharma and the Social Contract Theory	17

The Constitutional Concept of Rajan, Checks to Royal Absolutism and the Organic Character of the State	19
(1) The King as the Pivot of the State	19
(2) Checks to Royal Absolutism	19
(i) The Fear of Religion	19
(ii) The Holy Power of the Brahmins	21
(iii) The Council of Ministers or Ratnins	21
(iv) The Power of Samiti or Parishad	22
(v) The Right of Subjects to Dethrone a King	22
(vi) The Coronation Pledge	24
(vii) The Recital of Duties of the King	24
(viii) Primogeniture Not Sacred	24
(ix) The Institution of Prayopavesa to Check Absolutism	25
(x) The Village Councils	27
(xi) The Overriding Concept of Dharma or Law	27
(3) The Aim of the State	28
(4) The Saptanga Theory and the Limbs of the Organic Concept of State	29
3 The Constitutional-cum-Political Organization of the State in Ancient India
(A) Vedic Monarchies and Imperial Structures From Earliest Times to 647 AD	34
(1) The Monarchic Vedic States (2500 BC or 2000 BC to 1000 BC)	35
(i) The Vedic Institution of Kingship	37
(ii) Vedic Popular Assemblies	38
(iii) Samiti and Sabha	39
(iv) The Vedic Council of Ratnins	41
(2) The Organization of the Ancient Imperial State—Brahmanic Period (1000 to 600 BC)	42
(i) Senapati and Council of Ratnins	44
(ii) The Supremacy of the King Subject to the Coronation Oath	45
(3) Magadha Empire (500 BC to 200 BC)	46
(i) The Position of the King in the Mauryan Empire	47
(ii) The Mauryan King and the Law	48
(iii) The Executive Functions of the Mauryan King	48
(iv) The Political Organs of the State of Magadha	49
(a) The Inner Cabinet	49
(b) The Mantri-Parishad	51
(c) The Council of Advisers	52

(v) The Empire of Aśoka (273 BC to 236 BC)	54
(4) Kusana Empire and the Administrative Machinery of the Scythian Period	55
(5) Gupta Empire (AD 320 to 606 AD)	56
(i) The Military Conquests and the Organizing of an Empire	56
(ii) The Political Structure of the Gupta Empire	59
(a) The King	59
(b) The Ministers and their Council as an Organ of the Gupta Empire	60
(c) The Mantri-parisad disappears in the Gupta Empire and the Council of Mantrins takes its Place	61
(d) Strength of the Council of Mantrins or Ministers	62
(e) The Portfolios of the Council of Ministers	63
(f) The Functions and Powers of the Ministry	67
(g) The Imperial Organization for Efficient Discharge of the State Function	69
(6) The Empire of Harsa (606 AD to 647 AD)	71
(7) Conclusion	73
(B) Republics in the Vedic and Brahmanic Periods (2500 BC to 300 BC)	76
(1) Republics Described by Panini (500 BC)	76
(2) Republics at the Time of Alexander's Invasion	77
(3) Republics Described in Buddhist Literature	78
(4) Republics in the Mauryan Age	79
(5) Constitutional Organs of the Republics	80
(i) The Central Assembly	80
(ii) Procedure and Practice Governing Deliberations in the Assembly of the Republics	81
(a) Seating of Members	82
(b) Initiating a Motion or a Resolution	82
(c) Quorum	83
(d) The Whip	83
(e) Voting and Position of Absentees	83
(f) Procedure of Majority	83
(g) Pointless Speeches and Reference to Ad hoc Committees	84
(h) Maintenance of the Decorum of the House and Procedure	84
(i) Res Judicata	84
(j) Clerks of the House to Record Proceedings	84
(k) Referendum in Jatakas	84

(iii) The Executive	85
(iv) Confederal Republics	86
(v) Conclusion	87
(6) Disappearance of the Republics	88

Legal Concepts

4 The Juristic Concepts of Ancient India

Sources of Law and their Priorities, Inter se	90
(1) The Elements of Viable Source of Law	90
(2) The Four Sources of Ancient Indian Legal System	91
(i) Srutis	92
(ii) Smritis	93
(iii) Nibandhas	94
(iv) Other Literature	95
(v) Achara	96
(vi) Concept of Good Conscience	97
(3) Kinds of Law and Their Priorities	99
(4) The Orthodox Version of the Resolution of Conflict of Laws and Superiority of Dharma and Custom	110
(5) The Development of Law through Other Sources to Meet the Changing Needs of the Age	101
The Concept of Sovereignty	104
(1) Relation of State to Sovereignty	104
(2) The Location of Sovereignty	107
(3) The Position in Ancient Indian Monarchies	108
(i) Ultimate Sovereignty of the Divine	108
(ii) Paramountcy of Law over the King Symbolised Sovereignty on Earth	110
(4) The Position in Ancient Indian Republics	115
(5) Comparison with Other Theories of the World	116
(6) Concept of Citizenship, Nationality and Aliens	119
(i) Nationality	120
(ii) Aliens	121
The Adjudicatory Concept and the Judicial Mechanism	122
(1) The Ingredients of Adjudication	124
(2) Adjudicatory Mechanism in the Republics of Ancient India	124
(3) Judicial Courts in Monarchies of the Vedic Age	125

(4) Judiciary under the Magadha Empire (500 BC to 200 BC)	127
(i) Constitution of Courts	127
(ii) Preference for Bench in Place of Solo Judge	129
(iii) Institution of Lawyers	130
(iv) Adjudication by Ordeal	130
(a) Ordeal of Balance	131
(b) Ordeal of Fire	132
(c) Ordeal of Water	132
(d) Ordeal of Poison	133
(e) Ordeal of Lot	133
(f) Ordeal of Rice-Grains	133
(g) Ordeal of Fountain-Cheese-Ktesias	133
(v) Trial by Jury	133
(vi) Appointment of Judges and Judicial Standard	134
(vii) Guide-lines for Use of Discretionary Power in Adjudication	134
(viii) Judgment by one's Own Conscience as the Essence of Judicial Propriety	135
(ix) Kautilya's method	136
(5) The Gentle Justice of the Ashoka Empire (273 BC to 236 BC)	136
(6) Judicial Courts of the Gupta Empire (320 AD to 606 AD)	137
Legal Procedures and Law of Evidence	139
(1) Judicial Procedure	139
(i) Yajnavalkya Smriti	139
(ii) Narad Smriti	142
(iii) Katyayana Smriti	144
(2) Law of Evidence	147
(i) Kinds of Evidence	147
(ii) Witnesses (Sakshi)	147
(iii) Gautam on Witnesses	149
(iv) Documentary Evidence	150
The Concept of Crime, Punishment and Humanitarian Laws	151
(1) Vedic Age	151
(2) Magadhan Imperialism (500 BC to 200 BC)	152
(3) The Concept of Punishment in the Buddhist Empire of Ashoka	154
(4) The Empire of the Guptas and Harsha (320 AD 647 AD)	154
Humanitarian Law of War	157
(1) Rules of Warfare in Ancient Indian Polity	158
(i) Weapons of Warfare	158
(a) The Principle of Fighting Like to Like	158

(b) Prohibition on Use of Hyper-destructive Weapons	158
(c) Weapons Causing Unnecessary Suffering Prohibited	159
(ii) Objects of Violence in War	159
(a) Military Targets	159
(b) Individuals Who Could or Could not be Attacked in War	160
(iii) Acts Prohibited in Warfare	162
(a) Treachery	162
Crops
(b) Molestation of Peaceful Citizens or Destruction of Standing Crop	162
(c) Destruction of Prisoners of War and the Sick and Wounded	163
Concept of Property	164
(1) The Corporate Concept	164
(i) Patriarchal Family	164
(ii) Joint Family	164
(iii) Village Community	165
(2) The Dissolution of the Joint Family and the Birth of the Concept of Individual Ownership	165
(i) Self-acquired Property	166
(ii) The Partition of Property	166
(iii) Right of Alienation	168
(iv) Concept of "Stridhana" property	169
(3) The Historical Evolution of the Concept of Property in the Smriti Texts	170
(i) Manu and Yajnavalkya	170
(a) Possession and Ownership
(b) Laws of Partition and Inheritance; Son's Share in Ancestral Property	170
(ii) Narada's Contribution	171
(iii) Katyayana's Contribution	171
(a) Partition and Inheritance	171
(b) Stridhana	172
(iv) The Contribution of Vyas	173
(a) Concept of Possession	173
(b) Concept of Daya or Heritage	173
 5 Conclusion	 174
Questions and Answers on 27.9.79	183
The Political Organization of Mauryan Empire
Bibliography: Original Works in Sanskrit, Prakrit, and Pali	185
List of Memorial Lectures	188
Index	189